Deck Your Halls with limited-edition treasures from Beaufort Art Association's Holiday Boutique. Are you looking for that special one-of-a-kind Christmas gift? Something funky like a painting of an alligator with a Santa hat? Or just beautiful, Beaufort inspired Christmas cards? The classroom area of the Beaufort Art Association Gallery has been transformed into a winter wonderland full of fine art and crafts especially created for this event.

Local member artists have been working all year to design unique works of art that they will only show in the Holiday Boutique. Hand-made Santas are always a hit as are small painting scenes of the Lowcountry, new lines of jewelry and the gold painted "auratone" photographs. One of BAA's potters always creates a new line of small ornamental bowls and vases just for this event. The Christmas Tree will be filled with hand-painted porcelain ornaments and very popular hand-crafted oyster angels and dried oca Santas. Although the gifts are mainly holiday inspired, not all the new art will be seasonal. Some of the artists have created new products that will just be available for these 2 months. This exciting boutique will run through December 31. Show up early. All items are entirely the creative

With the gift of art, you can give a gift that is both beautiful and meaningful. This small, dark green, square wooden stool is a perfect example of a gift that can be both functional and decorative. It features a festive design on the top surface, including a lit candle in a gold holder, surrounded by holly leaves and berries. Below the illustration, the text "Mark the List of things Christ has be with you throughout the year" is written in gold script. The stool has four legs with decorative cutouts and gold trim along the edges. It is a perfect gift for anyone who appreciates art and has a sense of humor.
