

Rediscover the trees of the Lowcountry with the exhibit Still Standing, The Beauty of Southern Trees by Gary Mullane this August at Art League Gallery. Gary's relationship with trees began over forty years ago.

Working as a tree consultant, Gary obtained a degree in Arboriculture and Park Management from the Stockbridge School of Agriculture at the University of Massachusetts. Gary was twice awarded national excellence in Arboriculture for his work in preserving trees at Marriott's Grande Ocean Resort and Shelter Cove's Disney Resort. One may argue, that no one else on Hilton Head knows trees like Gary Mullane does.

After a long career of preserving trees, Gary began to photograph trees. Because of his © 2014 by the author. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without prior written permission from the author.