

The Art Market at Historic Honey Horn, a juried fine art and craft festival is scheduled for Saturday, April 28 and Sunday, April 29. Ninety accomplished artists from the region and from across the country will be on site for our 17th annual Market.

Stroll through artists' booth under historic live oaks to find that perfect piece of original art to take home. Fine art and craft in all shapes, sizes, styles, price ranges, and media will be available for purchase during this weekend.

In addition to selling their original works, artists will also be competing for $5,000 in prizes. This year's winners will be selected by Kristen Watts. Watts has worked in the arts for twenty years both as a consultant and a key staff member for several museums, including serving as Director of Exhibitions & Design for the Saint Louis Art Museum (St. Louis, Missouri) and Director of Collections & Exhibitions for The Mint Museum (Charlotte, North Carolina). Currently, Kristen is a freelance art consultant and founder of Art Re|Solved.
