

Meatapalooza: Up in Smoke

Written by Debbi Covington
Tuesday, 11 August 2015 14:35

By Debbi Covington

Every summer, our friends Jon and Lolita throw a party that features culinary creations from Jon's smoker. Friends and guests share appetizers, side dishes, desserts (and copious amounts of adult beverages) to complete the annual feast. Over the years, Jon has smoked just about every type of meat that you can think of. His lasagna is my personal favorite. Always a fun event, we all eat way too much and smell like smoke for at least a week. This year, I asked Jon if he would be willing to share some of his recipes with my readers. He graciously agreed. These are a few of the offerings from this year's soiree.

Smoked Ham with Apple-Bourbon Glaze

Meatapalooza: Up in Smoke

Written by Debbi Covington

Tuesday, 11 August 2015 14:35

2 1/2 lb. pork, fully smoked ham shank, bone in apples, 3 and 5 tablespoons cold unsalted butter

Smokey Chicken Salad, Creamy Chopped Chicken Sandwiches, Buffalo Baked Wings, BBQ Beef Hash, Big Fish and Old Fied

Smoked Pork Chops Stuffed with Spinach and Italian Sausage

Meatapalooza: Up in Smoke

Written by Debbi Covington

Tuesday, 11 August 2015 14:35

For the interested in more recipe, please visit dhc@cateringbydebbicovington.com or visit my website at www.cateringbydebbicovington.com