

Love does conquer everything! It all began with a phone call from Polly, the mother of the bride. “My daughter and her fiancé had booked their wedding and reception on Fripp Island. And now, coronavirus has made it necessary for them to change their plans and reschedule their wedding reception to October of 2021.

They don't want to wait another year to be married and are going to elope on Fripp Island on October 1st. Would you be available to cater a private dinner for the two of them on their wedding night?”

Are you kidding? After a 6 month pandemic-enforced hiatus from catering, all I could think was “Yes! That sounds like fun.” And it was. Chelsea and Jordan were such a happy and sweet bride and groom. They were obviously thrilled to be married and their delight with every part of the evening made the event a one of a kind occasion. It was a joy to cater their elopement supper. Aided by my trusty sidekick, Tami Taylor, we served the darling couple a socially distanced three-course dinner overlooking the beach on the balcony of their Fripp Island condominium. Bloom Custom Cakes provided a mini wedding cake, complete with a top layer for freezing until their first anniversary, for dessert. In this issue, I'm sharing recipes from Jordan and Chelsea's special evening and sending them both love and best wishes from their wedding caterer. Congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Harris!

on my Facebook page: “We had such a treat on our wedding night – Debbi cooked us an incredible meal (our mouths water just thinking about it) that we will never forget. We eloped on the beach and when we came back to our condo, Debbi and Tami had set up a beautiful table for us with candles, place settings, plateware, etc. We worked with Debbi ahead of time to come up with the menu and she even threw in some surprise treats! The food was absolutely fantastic – we had a pimento cheese appetizer, a fresh salad, swiss and chive cornbread with homemade herbed butter, bacon wrapped scallops, crab imperial, roasted veggies and sweet potatoes. Debbi and Tami took great care of us and the meal was unrushed which was so wonderful. We were thrilled to find we had leftovers, which they packaged up perfectly for us to enjoy the next evening.

It meant a lot to us to be surrounded with kind, caring people on our wedding day and we loved working with Debbi. We highly recommend booking her for any event you have. She will make it special and the food will be incredible, tasty and memorable!”

I told you they were sweeties. Thanks, y'all.
