As we go to press, Dream Coast Films has announced plans to shoot a pair of films in the Beaufort area, both set in the world of Country Music. According to a press release the first project, "Route 65 Nashville is a story of hope in the future, faith in your God—given talent and the pure love of Country Music. The story captures the essence of the human spirit triumphing and overcoming when the odds are stacked against you."

Attached to star in the film are Eric Roberts, Corbin Bernsen, Naomi Judd, Johnny Messner, Rachel Hunter, Daryl Hannah, Janine Turner, Brooke Hogan, Stephen Baldwin, Bailee Madison, Randall Batinkoff, Chris Wiehl, Ray Lewis, Bill Goldberg, Kevin Nash, Kurt Busch, Kenny Wallace, Peter Donald Badalamenti II, Rachel Rosenstein, and Joel Lambert.

The film is also set to feature music and appearances by Nashville music stars like John Parr, Jamie O'Neal, Tommy Jennings, Bobby Cyrus and more.

The second film is "My Brother, Your Outlaw, The Waylon Jennings Story." No immediate details were available on this project other than a production start is targeted for next January. Cameras are scheduled to roll on "Route 65 Nashville" in August.

We're told investment opportunities are available on both films. Get more information on the production online at www.Route65Nashville.com
