

Shaken, Not Stirred

Written by Editor

Monday, 18 June 2012 15:21 - Last Updated Tuesday, 19 June 2012 08:40

The Beaufort Art Association is proud to feature Cathy Keup, whose exhibit “Shaken, Not Stirred” will run at the BAA Gallery on 913 Bay Street from June 25 through August 4 with an opening reception on Friday, June 29.

The title of Cathy’s exhibit is, of course, a phrase made famous in the James Bond movies, but in Cathy’s work it rather refers to her bold designs, eye-catching images and gutsy splashes of color! It’s an apt title for this exhibit, as evidenced by Cathy’s landscapes and florals that are literally bursting with color and excitement.

Cathy says: “Watercolor fits my personality, “because it is a medium that provides a large degree of freedom, spontaneity and wonderful surprises as the paint flows to ‘the beat of its own drummer’!”

Cathy began painting twelve years ago while recovering from knee surgery that put a temporary halt

Shaken, Not Stirred

Written by Editor

Monday, 18 June 2012 15:21 - Last Updated Tuesday, 19 June 2012 08:40

Read more Articles | Capitals | Currencies | Countries | Flags | Languages | Maps | Populations | Regions | Time Zones | Weather | World Facts