The Lowcountry Wind Symphony announces the beginning of its third season, which includes significant and exciting changes! Each of the three concert programs will be performed for audiences at venues both North and South of the Broad. The first two performances proudly honor all men and women who have served in the military.

LWS has made a strong commitment to honor America's veterans each year at its November concerts. Music Director, Donald F. Jemella has chosen both new music and pieces familiar to our growing number of concert supporters. This includes stirring patriotic marches, selections from dramatic symphonic literature, as well as traditional music of America's armed forces. The Veteran's Day programs also features selections by the Lowcountry Brass Quintet.

Maestro Jemella will be joined on the podium this season by Assistant Conductor,
