

At Last...

Written by Editor
Tuesday, 10 March 2015 11:28

... Jaimee Paul is coming to Beaufort

The USCB Beaufort Center for the Arts will present Jaimee Paul in "At Last," a powerful jazz tribute to the great female singers of our time, on Friday, April 3 at 7:30 pm.

Imagine a 1940's jazz club, filled with the voices of Ella Fitzgerald, Billie Holiday, Rosemary Clooney, and other favorites. Jaimee Paul and her jazz combo, led by husband Leif Shires on trumpet, deliver just that. "At Last," a tribute to that wonderful era and those fabulous female vocalists, will take you back to the glory days of yesteryear.

Raised in Southern Illinois, Jaime Paul left her hometown for Nashville, Tennessee to study music business at highly acclaimed Belmont University.

"I grew up singing in church, since I was five years old," she says. "I still sing in my church

At Last...

Written by Editor

Tuesday, 10 March 2015 11:28

